LONDON. January 12.—(Special.)—A davice which for more than three years helped to protect British warships from flerman mines has won for its inventor. Lieutenant Charles D. Burney, of the British navy, the order of Companies of St. Michael and St. George and a grant of $150,000. The invention is said to have saved the lives of hundreds of sailors and prevented the loss of many warships. It consists of a waterplane shaped like a torpedo, having a pair of large flat fins projecting on either side. It is towed overside by a wire rope in such a way that it runs from the ship's bows outward. The wire rope is intended to pick up the mooring ropes of mines and slide them along until they reach to the none of the device, where a sharp saw is fixed inside a V-shaped slot. The saw cuts through the mooring rope and allows the mine to float free, where it can either be avoided or destreyed. The invention is known in the service as the "P. V." or "paravane."

BILLY SUNDAY'S LAWYERS FILE DEMURRER TO SUIT

Kansas City Man Is Suing Evangelist for Alleged Plagiarizing From His Books.

SAYS IDEAS WERE STOLEN

Counsel for Defense Argue That Use of Thoughts of Another in Sermons Does Not Violate Copyright

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., January 12 .-The appropriation of an author's ideas and thoughts from his copyrighted publications for use in sermons and published matter is not a violation of the copyright laws and cannot be made the basis for a suit for damages, according to a demurrer flied in Federal Court by attorneys for William A. (Billy) Sunday, famous revivalist, against the second amended complaint of Sidney A. Tapp, Kansas City writer. Mr. Tapp is suing the evangelist for $100,000, charging that Sunday plagiarized from five books Tapp has published.

Tapp filed his original complaint more than a year ago. Since then an amended and then a second amended complaint have been filed with answers and demurrers to each by the defendant.

The contentions of Sunday's attorneys supporting the demurrer filed yesterday raise some novel points. The defense holds that the complaint is not good because it was not accompanied by copies of the works of Tapp from which Sunday is alleged to have "stolen," and the works in which Sunday used the alleged "stolen" matter. Supreme Court rulings to the effect that such exhibits must be filed with the complaint or reasons for their absence set forth are cited. The second fault found is that the amended complaint does not show that the plaintiff ever fully complied with the copyright laws. The third alleged flaw cited raises a new point. The defense says the amended complaint is faulty because it rests upon the defendant's "alleged appropriation of ideas said to be contained in the plaintiff's books."

Continuing it says, "It is a novel provision that the continuing it says, "It is a novel provision that the copyright law grants a monopoly on thinking. There can be no literary conspiracy in expressing thoughts previously uttered by another where the writing and forms of expression are original with the later writer."
